on the north central front but did not mention its name. (An unconfirmed Vichy broadcast declared that the Red army had entered Staraya Russa.)
All indications were, meantime,

CHICAGO, March 21.—Nationwide registration for distribution of sugar rationing cards will take place
May 4 to 7, it was announced today by Frank Bane, director of field operations for the Office of Price Administration.
Addressing a regional meeting of OPO officials gathered in Chicago, Bane explained that all citizens desiring cards must register and reveal the amount of sugar on hand in their homes.
Bane said the registration of industrial users will be held April 28 and April 29. The public registration will be held in primary schools throughout the country, and the industrial users will register in high schools.

BOMBAY, March 21.—Smashing raids by Royal Air Force bombers on enemy troop concentrations and airports in Burma, were announced officially today.
Large fires were started at Hnaba, while the airport north of Bassein was said to have been damaged.
Japanese planes twice raided a town in Central Burma but without causing damage or casualties.
Widespread offensive sweeps over enemy territory were staged by British planes during Thursday.

Mrs. MacArthur Tells Of Life In Bombed Fortress

(International News Service)
MELBOURNE, March 21.—Mrs.
Douglas MacArthur today described her three months of living in the bombed fortress of Corregidor, where, she said, "I tried to make a home for my husband and son despite the din and dust of battle."
It was no easy task, she said.
"We lived in a house on the post, eating mostly canned foods, frequently going into the rock caves for shelter—sometimes five or six times every day."
As to her plans now in Australia,
Mrs. MacArthur said she hoped first to get some rest. "Then I'm going to buy some clothes. We brought almost nothing more than we are wearing."
Her little son Arthur clutched two toys, a rabbit and a leopard, which he carried during the entire trip from Bataan.

U. S. Seizure Of Railroad Is Ordered

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, March 21.—
President Roosevelt today ordered federal seizure of the Toledo, Peoria and Western railroad.
Marking the first time that a common carrier has been taken over by the government since the president was granted extraordinary war powers, the action was achieved in an executive order by Mr. Roosevelt, directing Joseph B. Eastman, head of the office of defense transportation, to "take immediate possession" of all the road's property and operate it.
The president's move culminated a dispute involving a three-months strike on the road, in the course of which the company's president, George P. McNear, Jr., apparently finally refused to submit the wage dispute to arbitration by the war labor board.

Dr. C. C. Green To Attend Funeral Of Dr. Ben Graham

Dr. Ben G. Graham in Pittsburgh
Sunday will be Dr. C. C. Green, superintendent of schools here. Dr.
Green succeeded Dr. Graham as superintendent here in 1926.
Commenting upon the death of Dr. Graham, Dr. Green said: "I am deeply grieved to learn of the passing of Dr. Ben G. Graham. I have lost a close personal friend and education has lost a splendid leader.
His term of service as superintendent of schools here marked the beginning of a new era in education in this office have recognized much evidence of his courage and professional vision in public school

administration."

Benny Goodman Married On Friday

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, March 21.—Benny Goodman, whose magic clarinet lifted him from poverty in Chicago to the throne of New York's swing king, was honeymooning today with his bride, the former Mrs. Alice Hammond Duckworth, great-great-granddaughter of Commodore Cornelius Vanderbilt.
The marriage, announced in New York by the bride's parents, Mr.

took place yesterday at Las Vegas, Nev.
The idol of the nation's jitterbugs and the pretty blonde Vanderbilt descendant remained at Las Vegas for their honeymoon and won't return to New York until the end of the month. It was the first marriage for 32-year-old Benny, the second for 36-year-old Alice Duckworth.
She obtained a divorce at Las Vegas last January 26 from George Arthur Victor Duckworth of London, to whom she was married in March, 1927.

Mrs. MacArthur Tells Women To Stand By Men

Urges Women Of Australia
To Help Them As Much
As Possible
(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)
MELBOURNE, March 21.—Pretty, vivacious Mrs. Douglas MacArthur
today advised the women of Australia to "stand by your men and help them as much as possible."
"That," she added, "is my real message to the women of Australia."
This message from the wife of America's greatest fighting man—known to his associates and most of Australia simply as "The General"—came as a result of a flood of requests from various publications.
Mrs. MacArthur, who has remained deep in the background during the general's triumphal trip across Australia, held a brief press conference in her hotel suite this evening.
She said simply:
"Various women's publications have asked me for a message for the women of Australia. Their representatives have been so kind to meet with the gifts of fruit, flowers and cordial greetings.
"Australian women are just like me. I feel right at home with them here."
"Arthur (her four-year-old son)
and I stood the strenuous trip well, and we particularly enjoyed the train trip through Australia. I am going to devote my time to the general and young Arthur, as I have always done.
"That is my real message to the women of Australia: Stand by your men and help them as much as possible."

Huge Lottery Racket Hit By Series Of Raids

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, March 21.—Federal agents prepared today to ask for the immediate prosecution of 60 members of a huge lottery racket which the Federal Bureau of Investigation has smashed in a series of lightning raids in 36 cities on the eastern seaboard.
Announcement that the ring had been broken up was made by Chief G-man J. Edgar Hoover who estimated that those arrested were enjoying an income of $10,000,000 annually from the "numbers" racket.
The combine, he said, had been operating from Maine to Florida, obtaining its revenue through sale of lottery tickets printed at Albany, N. Y., at the rate of 4,000,000 weekly, with another 125,000 a week being turned out at Port Plain, N. Y.
Purported leaders of the ring, according to the F.B.I., are five brothers—Louis, Joseph, Harry, Frank and Charles Cohen—who first organized the lottery in Philadelphia 16 years ago. All but Harry Cohen are under arrest and he is being sought.
Hoover attributed their success to "their considerable wealth and political influence." Louis Cohen, it was stated, has sizeable financial interests in several Miami, Fla., night clubs.
Others allegedly connected with the ring also have interests in the

Jap Cruiser Is Reported Sunk

Australian Premier Says
Allied Plane Attack
Sank Cruiser
ATTACKING BOMBERS
ALL RETURN SAFELY
(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)
CANBERRA, March 21.—Prime Minister John Curtin announced today that allied bombers were reported to have set afire and sunk a Japanese heavy cruiser yesterday during a daylight raid on Rabaul on New Britain island.
The daylight attack was conducted despite heavy anti-aircraft fire from ground batteries and ships anchored in the harbor, Curtin said.
Success of the United Nations bombers was achieved only after they had been beaten off twice by Japanese fighter planes, Curtin announced disclosed. On their third attempt, the attackers scored a direct hit and several damaging "near misses" on the cruiser and clouds of black smoke arose immediately.
As the bombers were leaving the harbor for the last time, the allied crews said the ship was burning and sinking. The Japanese planes pursued them and concentrated especially on an allied bomber which was slowed up by engine trouble.
The harassed bomber beat off numerous attacks successfully and all of the attacking craft returned safely, Curtin said. One of the enemy planes was seen going into a steep dive, allied flyers reported.
The Australian radio was quoted by CBS as saying a second Japanese cruiser had been badly damaged in the same raid.

Donaldson today warned all persons having pin ball machines or punch boards in their possession to get rid of them by April 1, or they will be confiscated.
The statement of District Attorney Donaldson follows:
"In view of the recent Superior Court decision that pin-ball machines which give the player 'free games' are gambling devices, it is necessary to warn the owners and possessors thereof that they are subject to confiscation and destruction. We advise the removal from

Once in a blue moon some play

War Council Is Convening In Cairo

Special India Envoy Attends

Reinforcements And Supplies For India Are Probably Being Discussed

RENEWED NEAR EAST ACTIVITY EXPECTED

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service

LONDON, March 21.—An important war council, attended by Sir Stafford Cripps, Prime Minister Churchill's special envoy to India, convened in Cairo today.

Meeting with Cripps will be Gen. Archibald Nye, vice chief of the imperial general staff; Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck, commander of the British army in Libya; Admiral Sir Andrew Cunningham, commander of the British Mediterranean fleet; Sir Miles Lampson, British ambassador to Egypt; Sir Walter Monckton and others.

Far-reaching moves of the greatest importance were believed afoot in the Middle East war theater, with the knowledge that General Rommel's Nazi army, after weeks of inactivity, is again reconnoitering in the western desert.

General Nye, arriving in Cairo with Sir Stafford by air, immediately called the conference.

The presence of Sir Stafford on the council indicated that the problem of reinforcements and supplies will be discussed. Nye will be able to tell the British commanders exactly what can be spared and what disposition can be made of the available forces.

to die," he warned. "It requires careful preparation. This means the furnishing of sufficient troops and sufficient material to meet the known strength of the potential enemy. No general can make something out of nothing."

"I am glad to be here and have the privilege of cooperating with the Australian soldier," MacArthur said. "I know him well from the World War and I admire him greatly."

"My success or failure will depend primarily upon the resources which our respective governments can place at my disposal. My faith in them is complete. In any event, I shall do my best. I shall keep the faith of my soldiers."

Huge Crowd Gathers

Hours before MacArthur's train arrived from Adelaide, the Melbourne station was jammed. Awaiting patiently with the crowd was the general's guard of honor, made up of a battalion of 300 American soldiers and a squad of Philippine soldiers under the command of Maj. Victor Klineke. The Filipinos were soldiers who had been wounded in the Philippine fighting under MacArthur and brought to Australia in a hospital ship.

Finally the train, hauled by two locomotives, pulled into the station and came to a stop. First aboard was Lieut. Gen. George H. Brett, recently appointed deputy to MacArthur and former commander of the United States forces in Australia.

Through the windows of the general's private car, he could be seen greeting Brett warmly. After greeting the other officers in MacArthur's party, General Brett alighted from the train and saluted while MacArthur came to the car door.

Standing very straight and looking as impressive as anticipated, MacArthur lingered for a moment on the platform surveying the vast throng in the background and the Australian dignitaries in formal dress, the officers of the Australian and American armies and navies, all gathered up front.

Official Reception

Then he strode down the steps and shook hands with Australian War Minister Francis Forde, the chiefs of staff of the Australian forces and the cabinet members who served as an official reception committee.

"I am confident that the people of Australia will not let you down," Forde told MacArthur. "Your brilliant record will hearten the Australians and our allies. Your arrival marks an era of still greater determination to speed up the war effort here."

MacArthur then inspected the guard of honor, including the proud Filipinos, who obviously were thrilled at seeing their commander once again. The general posed briefly for photographs and then was taken by automobile to a Melbourne hotel. Mrs. MacArthur and their four-year-old son, Arthur, had left the train quietly and preceded him to the hotel.

Although obviously moved by his great reception, General MacArthur indicated that the welcoming festivities should cease promptly to allow him to turn his attention immediately to the stern business at hand. One of his first moves was expected to be a conference with the Allied war council, which probably will include General Brett and the chiefs of the various branches of Australian forces.

Plans Moves
It was expected that the first moves of the council would be directed toward implementing the defense of the continent and New Guinea island, with plans for the eventual counter-offensive taking shape shortly thereafter. MacArthur was reported to have conferred already on those plans with Minister Forde. The general is expected to confer with Prime Minister John Curtin on Tuesday.

Australian officials said they anticipated an early reorganization of the Pacific war council with headquarters moved from London to Washington, in line with MacArthur's appointment as supreme Allied commander in the southwest Pacific zone.

MacArthur's immediate front line, barring an early Japanese invasion attempt, will probably be the Allied-held portion of New Guinea island, where Nippon forces were still reported to be advancing through the Markham river valley and Australian defenders were poised at vital Port Moresby.

As a present for their new commander, Australian and American bombers raided the Japanese-held port of Rabaul on New Britain island, and were reported to have sunk a heavy Nippon cruiser despite heavy anti-aircraft fire from ground batteries and ships in the harbor. The latest in a series of heavy Allied air blows was announced by Prime Minister Curtin.

SURPRISE RAID ON JAPANESE IN PHILIPPINES

Gen. Wainwright advised the war department that the guns of the four American forts across Manila Bay "effectively returned the fire" directed on them by the big Japanese eight-inch shore batteries which have harassed the American positions ever since the fall of Manila.

The latest bombardment, however, inflicted very little damage of military consequence, according to the war department.

On Mindanao at the southern end of the Philippine archipelago, American and Filipino troops inflicted "heavy casualties" in a sudden surprise raid near the port city of Zamboanga, the communiqué related.

There has been increasing proof recently that the Japanese are not in complete control of the large island of Mindanao, although the enemy occupied some areas early in the war.

American and Filipino troops still are entrenched in the northern half of the island and have made several raids on Japanese held areas near Davao and Zamboanga in recent weeks.

American forces on this southern island are being aided in their battle against the Japanese by at least 30,000 Moro Bolo men.

Why can't someone near the vicinity of an injured animal call someone if they themselves can't do anything for it? The proper care could be given the dumb beast, or they could get someone to care for it or take it to someone who could give aid and then find its owner.

That long-awaited annual dinner with our former friends is the program for Monday.

The committee has made arrangements for each of us to have a farmer guest, either of our own choosing or by assignment. If you have invited someone as your guest and find you cannot be there, do not interfere with your guests attendance as the committee will see that he has a bodyguard if you will notify them.

The speaker will be Mr. H. R. Eby, county agent of Allegheny County who will speak on "Practical Cooperation Between Farmer and Businessman."

Assails Method Used To Secure Army Commission

(International News Service)

HARTFORD, Conn., March 21.—The existence of what he termed an "utterly undemocratic method of securing a commission" in the armed services was called to the attention of President Roosevelt today by Gov. Robert A. Hurley of Connecticut.

In a lengthy telegram to Mr. Roosevelt, the Democrat governor stated that he protested with utmost vigor "a situation" which in his opinion gravely endangers the Democratic foundation of the selective service system.

"The situation to which I refer," continued Governor Hurley, "concerns the appointment in the several New England states of committees of so-called civilian aides to the chief of the air corps."

"The function of these committees is to recommend civilians for commissions in the ground force, of the air corps... The method which they pursue their activities leaves open a wide field for favoritism and discrimination."

The governor made it clear that he wasn't directing accusations at any member of the three committees he said exist in Connecticut. In New Haven, Bridgeport and Hartford, Raymond E. Baldwin, a former Republican governor of Connecticut, is a member of the Bridgeport committee, said Hurley.

Report Heavy Fighting
Heavy fighting was reported from Kharkov, where a German force of almost 500,000 troops was showing signs of cracking under the constant and increasing pressure.

The inexorable push of the German tanks which sought to break the ironing around the metropolis in the rich Ukraine.

The Stockholm Dagens Nyheter reported heavy fighting in the Rzhev-Viazma pocket where another German army, reported to number at least 400,000 men, was said to be in a precarious position.

Enrichment of Viazma, on the southern end of the pocket, was threatened by the Soviet attack, the newspaper declared.

The town of Sergiyevopolzka, northeast of Viazma on the rail line to Moscow, has fallen to the Russians, said the Stockholm report, while on the southern arm of the pincers reaching toward Smolensk the red army continued to move ahead, capturing three more towns.

The inexorable push of the Soviet forces is being made in the face of increasingly heavy fighting, the army newspaper Red Star declared. The Nazis were reported using every method to halt the advance.

Fascists Fall Back
In one sector the enemy counter-attacked, trying to battle simultaneously tanks and infantry supported by artillery and dive bombers, the newspaper said.

"For several hours the Soviets held the enemy's violent onslaughts. Then we counter-attacked. The fascists wavered and fell back. The red army continued to press forward."

On another front (believed to be Leningrad) Soviet infantrymen using sleds propelled by airplane motors, stormed and captured a strongly fortified village, the newspaper reported.

The attack was made under cover of darkness and in a blinding snowstorm, Izvestia said. "The Germans tried to escape along the only road left open to them."

"They were moved down our machine gun fire. The Nazi dogs were 431 and we captured 22 prisoners."

The Moscow radio reported that six big towns and 2,500 inhabited localities had been retaken, while the enemy lines were broken at several points.

On the front southwest of Moscow, Soviet troops had breached Nazi lines above Orel and captured a village after a succession of heavy red army assaults, the radio reported.

Elsewhere, said Soviet reports, German soldiers with their hands in the air trudged toward the Russian lines to surrender, but were shot in the backs by their own officers.

Fourteen Bus Passengers Hurt

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, March 21.—Fourteen persons were injured today when a bus, swerving to avoid a collision with a police patrol wagon in mid-town Philadelphia, crashed into a traffic light standard and sent it spinning through the side of the patrol.

Two policemen in the patrol, which was speeding a sick man to a hospital, were injured as the heavy metal tore through the side. The sick man, identified as Woodrow Pilgrim, of Russellville, La., was not struck by the standard. He had been found unconscious on the street just a few minutes before the accident.

Four British sailors in the bus, which had just come from Barrington, New Jersey, were among those injured. One American seaman was also hurt. The injured were taken to other police hospitals to Jefferson and Hahnemann hospitals.

London's telephone automatic time signal is rung 545,000 times weekly.

Major R. L. Fisher Is White House Guest For Period

(BULLETIN)

WASHINGTON, March 21.—President Roosevelt today welcomed to the White House Maj. Robert L. Fisher, one of the heroes of the battles of the Philippines and Java.

Fisher commanded the air forces at Fort Clark in the Philippines. Later he went to Java and again performed brilliantly in the air.

The flier, slightly built and somewhat reserved, reported that the Japanese have been machine-gunning United Nations pilots after they have bailed out of their planes in an effort to parachute to safety.

"For that reason, the boys are waiting until they are pretty close to the ground before pulling the rip cords on the chutes," he said.

Fisher refused to discuss his mission in the United States, but Presidential Secretary Stephen T. Early said he had come back to form another fighting air group.

Fisher is leaving for Clearwater Beach, Fla., tomorrow to see his wife and two children briefly before returning to the battle area of the Pacific.

PHILADELPHIA, March 21.—Thirty-six Pennsylvanians were named today as federal agents clamped down on the nation's largest lottery ring, which reportedly had a "take" of $10,000,000 a year.

Sixteen of those arrested were from the Philadelphia area, while 20 others were identified as being from western and central Pennsylvania. They will all be held in bail pending transfer to Wilmington, Del., where the indictments against them were returned, a U. S. commissioner said.

According to evidence presented at a previous trial, which misfired for lack of evidence last January at Pittsburgh, the birthplace of the racket was a Drexel Hill mansion in 1926.

All Works Out

Of course, it all works out, as you knew it would. During his address to his family Hamilton is heard by a group of neighbors, and the next day he is a hero in his home town. You might expect that the reward would have been his old job back. Instead, the folks sent him to Congress. Which was rather rough treatment for a fellow who really wanted to be okay.

"American Passport" is a rather unusual play. The first and third acts would never win any Pulitzer, but the second act redeems any weakness in the other two. The high school cast did a neat bit of work in presenting it, and Miss Clara Hartsuff did an intelligent piece of casting. Near the end of the play she was presented with a bouquet by the youngsters.

Prison Shoes And Bunions Are Cause Of Woes

(International News Service)

DENVER, March 21.—Prison shoes and bunions got K. L. Goodfellow into a pack of trouble, and today he was under a 3 to 5 year prison sentence because of it all.

Goodfellow told his story to Judge Joseph J. Walsh as follows: "I was released from the state prison at Canon City January 30. The next night I was walking on a downtown Denver street. My feet were killing me. Those prison shoes were too tight on my bunions."

"I took one shoe off and threw it away. It went through a jewelry store window. I didn't intend to steal, Judge, but I saw those watches, and I took three of them. Then I started to run, but with only one shoe I was slow and somebody caught me."

Judge Walsh then passed sentence.

MRS. CLEMENTS CLASS ENJOYS LECTURE-SOCIAL

Members of Mrs. J. C. Clements' Bible class of Epworth Methodist church, were delightfully entertained Friday evening in the home of Mrs. Kenneth Brown on Sheridan avenue.

The group received the group for their regular session.

Highlighting the occasion, was an illustrated talk given by Mrs. James D. Crawford, who carried the assemblage off into the Caribbean, on to Mexico, the jungles, to massive and historic cathedrals, a trip she had recently taken. Technicolor pictures were shown, adding much to the evening's pleasures.

In addition, Mrs. Crawford had on display, articles of leather, silver and woven materials made by Mexicans and Indians. She related the customs of the people told of their climate, habits and other facts that proved most interesting.

In appreciation of her contribution, Mrs. Crawford was presented with a lovely bouquet of flowers, in behalf of the class.

Following an informal period of discussion and after viewing the articles displayed, the group of eighteen were served a delicious lunch in the dining room. The table was prettily appointed in the season's motif, and associate hostesses who aided Mrs. Brown, were Mrs. Leone Druman and Mrs. Wayne Stitzinger.

In the absence of their teacher, Mrs. J. C. Clements who is spending the winter in St. Petersburg, Fla., Mrs. Marjorie Nelson is presiding in her place. Mrs. Clements plans on returning here in the very near future.

The Monday Afternoon Prayer Band will meet Monday at 2 p. m. in the parsonage of the Bethel church on Green street, with Mrs. A. Larry in charge.

Hints On Etiquette

Don't ridicule other people. No one admires a person who makes another feel uncomfortable or embarrassed. A little good-natured teasing is all right, but stop when you see it is "getting under the skin" of the person teased.

The more his work is like a hobby—the more pleasure he gets out of it—the higher his rate of pay.

PERSONAL MENTION

Betty Kenahan, of Morton street, who has been quite ill at her home, is slowly improving.

John J. Johnston, 617 Arlington avenue, has returned home after spending some weeks in the Aspinwall hospital.

Billy Kenahan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kenahan of Morton street, has left for C. C. camp, Oakland, Md.

Ben Jenkins, student at the Missionary Institute, Nyack, N. Y., is visiting with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Jenkins of R. D. 5.

Miss Betty Rishel of West Washington street, who was confined to her home with illness for several weeks, is much improved and able to be out.

Charles Morris and James Wallace of this city have arrived in DeLand, Fla., for a month's visit. They are located at 130 Voorhis avenue there.

Kenneth Keck, who is quarantined with scarlet fever at the home of his aunt, Mrs. J. L. Hook, 519 West Washington street, is showing some improvement.

Homer Jones of Whippoor street, who is confined to the Jameson Memorial hospital for about 10 days for treatment, has been returned to his home and is improving nicely.

Mrs. Edith Hook of 1005 Adams street, who was confined to the New Castle hospital for over two weeks, and underwent an operation, has been returned to her home, and is getting along nicely.

Thomas J. Richards and sons James and Philip of West Washington street have returned from Coraopolis, where they attended the funeral of the sons' grandmother, Mrs. L. M. McPherson.

Former Judge James A. Chambers of Sumner avenue has been removed to the home from Johns Hopkins hospital, Baltimore, Md., where he had been confined by illness for the past six weeks.

J. L. Hook Sr., who fell at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Alvin Herberg, 904 North Locust street, on Wednesday and broke his hip, has been removed to the New Castle hospital where he is reported to be in a serious condition.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Henry, Sr. and sister Mrs. Amy of Erie Washington street, have returned after attending the funeral of Mrs. L. M. McPherson of Coraopolis. Mrs. Henry is the mother of Mrs. Thomas J. Richards, Hoyt block, West Washington street.

Mrs. Camilla Boyd of 206 West Leasure avenue has returned home from a nine weeks' stay in Tampa, Fla., where she was called by the illness of her mother, Mrs. M. N. Plumadore. The latter has recuperated sufficiently to permit her to make the train ride to another daughter's home, Mrs. A. F. Riehle of Glenwood, Ill., near Chicago, where she will remain. Mrs. Boyd accompanied her to Illinois, then returned to New Castle.

BIRTHS

LOOKING TO THE BOMBER

FRANCIS VIVIAN DRAKE in an article in the current issue of the Atlantic Monthly backs the heavy bomber to win the war for America. He holds that it is the spearhead that will reduce both Germany and Japan to abject defeat.

Of course he does not expect the plane to do the job by itself. It must be integrated with surface forces, army and navy. It must be given established bases within operating distance of its targets and those bases must be completely garrisoned, equipped and guarded.

An attacking fleet of those bombers must be able to unload on successive nights on an objective as much as 4,000 tons of high explosives. Drake says that no war industry plant on earth can escape total destruction from such an assault. The hardest blow Hitler delivered in England—that on Coventry—delivered 400 tons of bombs a night. That wrecked Coventry but did not destroy it.

When American bomber production reaches its goal and flying bases have been prepared the fleets can move out of England to the war factories in southern and central Germany and wipe them out. From bases in the Orient other fleets can wreak similar havoc on the industrial centers of Japan—Tokyo, Yokohama, Kobe and Osaka, all clustered together on the island of Honshu.

RUSSIA'S OPPORTUNITY

Russia is making strong assaults upon the fortified position Hitler prepared as a springboard for his spring offensive. Apparently most of the winter was spent by the Soviets breaking through the outer fortifications and the Red Armies are at last in contact with the main Nazi line. The degree of their success in the period before mud slows their drive will determine the course of the war next summer.

If the Red armies are able to crack this winter line at a point or two and surge through, they will demoralize Hitler's plans for a renewed push toward the Caucasus. It would then be impossible for him to reorganize for an early effort. And the Fuehrer's experience last summer proves that Russia must be attacked at the earliest possible moment in the spring if the enterprise is to have a chance to triumph. The old Nazi dream of conquering Russia in six weeks has gone the way of the one which envisioned the invasion of England.

In the weeks ahead the Russian drive will meet its fiercest resistance. But the Soviet has its glowing opportunity now to make 1942 a successful year.

AXIS DESPERATION

One by one the war analysts are reaching the conclusion that the Germans and the Japanese are shoring up a scheme to put the finishing touches to their program of world conquest this year. The Axis dream seems to be that the Nazis and the Japs will divide the world between them. Whether under this grandiose scheme Mussolini would be cut in for a bone is not known.

This presupposes the highest possible degree of collaboration, not only in a military sense, but in a political, commercial and cultural activities as well. The Japs and the Nazis might co-operate on the battlefield but they would soon come to a parting of the ways politically, commercially and culturally. That is, over division of the loot.

Already there are well-grounded rumors of Hitler's deep concern over the manner in which the Japs have overrun the rich resources of the Dutch and British East Indies. Hitler always meant to exploit those resources himself in the event he attained his war objectives. He would likewise want the lion's share of India. Certainly he would brook no opposition in either Africa or Europe.

The Axis has had much to say of its intention to establish world peace by dividing the world into spheres of influence. That is more rot than dream stuff. In adjoining spheres of influence the Nazis and the Japs would clash at the drop of a hat. They may do so in the course of their attempted conquests. The fear that these two may get along well even in their thievery is not well founded.

UNITED NATIONS ON THEIR WAY

Most Americans, however immense their respect for General MacArthur, know better than to expect him to perform miracles. He can't stop the Japanese and begin the long drive back to their home islands unless we give him the men and the tools he needs.

Yet there is no doubt that in the last few days there has been a remarkably invigorating change in the "moral climate" of the war in the Pacific, asserts the Philadelphia Inquirer. Although the Japs are pushing strongly into New Guinea, resistance is stiffening. The United Nations have begun to go places.

The spectacular arrival of General MacArthur in Australia and his appointment as supreme commander in that area dramatized the change in atmosphere. We can be very sure that MacArthur left his brave American and Filipino troops in the Philippines with the keenest regret. But his vast capabilities were required elsewhere. One of his first concerns upon reaching Australia was the problem of relieving the men in Bataan.

But it was also revealed that large numbers of American troops were in Australia when MacArthur arrived. They were already streaming to their battle stations. They were already helping to beat back the onrushing Japanese.

Then came the navy's announcement of the smashing blow by American and Australian fliers against Japanese invading forces in New Guinea, resulting in the sinking or damaging of 23 enemy vessels. Now comes word that American volunteer fliers and British pilots in Burma has destroyed a number of enemy planes at Japanese-held airbases.

Hard days doubtless are ahead, but the war in the Far East is definitely looking up for the United Nations. Our own forces are doing their heroic part. We're on our way. The great requirement now is to keep the stuff rolling from the war plants so that the boys over there will have the bombers to fly and the guns to shoot.

This rubber shortage may have its bright side too if it will do away with gumshoe politicians.

Jap Premier Tojo told the Jap diet the Jap fleet would be holding maneuvers off New York as General Yamashita's army was marching into London. In the meantime, Yamashita is stalled in Bataan by General MacArthur.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

TRAIN CHILD TO ENJOY RIGHT FOODS

Some children from two to five don't take enough milk, a few refusing it entirely. Most of these can learn to like milk if no other food is given at all or put in sight until a small, definite amount of milk placed before the child is drunk.

More often certain vegetables will be refused. It may be necessary then to keep the milk away from this child until after he has chosen to eat the very small helping of vegetable offered him. It may even be necessary to allow him to have very little milk or none at all for several meals until he is starved into eating the vegetables.

In any event, do not urge the child to eat. Merely place the food before him in a small amount with a spoon beside it. Let him choose to eat it or not, but let him also learn that it is this or nothing.

Eating Scenes
Some mothers will work themselves up over the child who dawdles over food, eats but little of any food, or refuses a particular one, and painful scenes develop. This happens when the mother attempts to push food into the child against his will or keeps nagging at him to eat. Perhaps the child will go into a rage as soon as the food is placed before him.

In such a case, it is better not to seat the child where he usually eats, and to have no other persons present. Give him no seat at all. On a low table or chair put on a plate a very, very small helping of the one necessary food for him to have; nothing else. Put a spoon beside it. By a single word or rap of the spoon, let the child know the food is there. Then with your lips sealed, walk away and be busy.

Don't Relax Procedure
If at the end of five minutes he has not begun to eat the food, carry it to the kitchen and dump it into the garbage can, keeping your lips sealed. Keep no account of him if he places too large helpings on his plate and be sure that he can get no other food, not even milk, before the next regular feeding time, when you will proceed as before. If he holds out for more than three successive meals or develops nausea, call your doctor.

When he chooses to eat the very small amount of food presented to him, place before him an equally small amount of another food, but no second helpings of any food till he has run the entire gamut. You will be tempted, as you succeed in placing too large helpings on his plate and to relax on your procedure.

I discuss these matters more at length in my pamphlet, "Preventing and correcting eating problems." A folder listing and describing this and my 14 other pamphlets on child training for the baby and young children may be had by writing me at 235 East 45th street, New York City, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp.

Solving Parent Problems
Q. I should like to let our baby, two years old, cry himself to sleep instead of staying with her always till she goes to sleep, but we live in an apartment and I don't want her to disturb the neighbors.

A. Tell them beforehand of your plans and they will probably be glad to have you go ahead and train that child, knowing they will profit later from such training.

The right kind of an insurance policy is the one that covers everything.

In some places pig pens are being allowed in cities during the duration of the war. Having a pig or two in the back yard used to be a great thing.

RABBITS IDENTIFIED

This story is told by an engineer who frequently worked on foreign projects.

On one of these jobs an American workman struck up a friendship with a native. The native used to bring his lunch to the job and as it frequently contained a meat stew the American often was allowed to share it, meat being scarce.

"What is it?" the American asked. "Rabbit," the native answered. "My wife catch him."

"I've tried for rabbits, too, the American said. "But I never could get any."

"Every night they come around house, make noise and my wife go out and shoot him," the native explained.

"But rabbits don't make a noise," "Sure," the native answered, beaming. "They go 'meow, meow'."

"Why do you make all that noise when you walk?" "I got my heavy underwear on."

There are people who make great sacrifices during a war and there are others who try to get all they can out of one.

If you ask me my definition of an old maid, it would be a woman who still has money in her purse at the end of the month.

General MacArthur's medals and decorations weigh more than 16 pounds. He was head of his class at West Point and came out of practical retirement to take his post in the Philippines. His arch rival for scholastic honors at the army academy was the grandson of U. S. Grant.

Two happy thoughts: Perhaps the car is so old the government won't want it. Or, maybe the government will allow twice what the old jalopy's worth.

Answer: I do not see how you can have both a maid and a matron of honor, since the former is single and the latter married and their rank is equal. The attendant of honor stands by the bride, holds her flowers, during the ceremony, arranges her veil, etc. The other attendants are merely ornamental. I am afraid you will have to have your two best friends toss a coin to see who will be attendant of honor. The loser can then be a bridesmaid.

Your brother should dress like the men attendants in cutaway coat, striped trousers, etc. You may eliminate gloves, although your ensemble will be more complete with them.

Question: Is it all right to leave the table to dance while the dinner is in progress at a dinner dance?—At.

Answer: Yes, but you should not leave to dance at the beginning of a course. Dancers should wait until the hostess and other guests have finished a course before leaving the table. And don't forget your "excuse us, please" as you depart.

What's What At A Glance

Leon Henderson Is Having His Hands Full Has Found Woman Much Harder To Deal With Depends On Housewife To Keep Down Costs

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, March 21.—National Price Fixer Leon Henderson is depending largely upon the American housewife to prevent day-by-day living costs from getting beyond control. He keeps a sharp eye upon manufacturers and wholesalers but doesn't interfere much with retail shopkeepers whose sales are mainly to customers of the feminine sex.

Of course, a retailer can't charge less than he has to pay for the merchandise on his shelves. That's why it is necessary to see that he's able to get it at reasonable figures. Doing so is the Office of Price Administration's funeral. A wholesaler doesn't come into direct contact with actual consumerism, so that there's nobody to dictate to him unless some overhead authority, like the O. P. A., attends to his case. A retailer, though, gets his hollers from right across the counter.

That is, he does if his patronage is principally from the distaff side of the public that foots the bills.

Price Fixer Henderson isn't so sure about men. He rather thinks the average gets a habit of trading at some particular clothiers or haberdashers, heads in there when there's something he wants and digs up whatever he's asked for, vowing perils, but handing over the dough. Maybe retailers of masculine supplies require a good bit of supervision.

Women A Problem
Women, however, are rated as far harder boiled. They shop around. The place that gives 'em the best and most on the best financial terms catches their business. Retailers who cater to 'em naturally compete for it. Consequently they're automatically as moderate as they can be, except at an outright loss. The wholesalers that THEY buy from have to be regulated, but so far as concerns any profiteering of their own, the advice tip is to the consumer with small assistance from the O.P.A.

The World and the Mud Puddles

GOGSE AND GANDER

The government of the United States is very inconsistent in its application of the Sherman Act. Just now the Attorney General is suing certain meat packers for violation of the Sherman Act, inasmuch as it is alleged they are selling meat at prices agreed between them—terrible!

No doubt, the employees of these packing firms are members of some Labor Union, directed by officials who are more or less racketeers. The Union Officials prepare the wage scale and deliver the scale to the officials for the several packing companies with their ultimatum—pay or we strike. Is this a violation of the Sherman Act or not?

"Oh, no," the government says, "it would never do at all. That would be dreadful." And with curious legal reasoning, the Attorney General says that Labor Unions are not corporations and consequently neither they or their officers are liable to the Sherman Act.

Well, it is high time that labor organizations of this country were compelled to incorporate and make their corporate returns to the Treasury Department, the same as every other corporation. It is a condition of affairs that permits those in control of the most important element that enters into the cost of any product, to fix the price of the commodity—co-wit Labor, and not permit the corporations employing labor to agree upon a proper charge for the finished product.

Just now the government is engaged in the joyful practice of fixing prices. Leon Henderson and his aids are fixing the prices of everything to suit themselves, with the exception of Labor and farm products.

There is a great deal of boastfulness on the part of the government and of the people of these United States concerning the American way of living—freedom and all that, but if the American way of life is such a wonderful thing, why are we so often citizens pushed for exactly what another class of citizens are not punished. The latter class is rather encouraged to keep on fixing prices, while the other class is subject to legal harassment. The government should forget all about combination and restraint of trade now that they have discovered that they can fix prices. If the government, for instance, should fix a reasonable price for meat products that would be all right. It can be done after proper investigation as to what the price should be for meat and for any other products of the packers.

That would suit the packers very well. It would eliminate an unfair competition among themselves and it would accomplish that which the Sherman Act was designed to accomplish.

But for heaven's sake, let us force the Labor Unions to incorporate.

Your presence and support will encourage your pastor too; they came to meet us as far as the April Forum, and the three taverns, whom when Paul saw, he thanked God and took courage.—Acts 28:15.

The Great Game Of Politics

All Right Unless Blocked

SAN DIEGO Cal., March 21. IT IS a thrilling experience to spend a day in one of the great California aircraft plants, watching the big bombers start out as a long, thin, flat, narrow gleaming piece of steel in the "parts plant" and emerge hours later complete at the end of the moving assembly line in the "home plant," fully equipped with engine, guns and bomb racks, ready to fly.

ASIDE from the breath-taking nature of the manufactured product, the spectacle of so vast a number of men and women working at full speed in a single plant under a single directing hand, with a single purpose in mind, is extraordinarily impressive. They work without lost motion or lost time. Nowhere in this immense acreage is there duplication or overlapping. Though there are many thousands of separate tasks and an almost uncountable number of machines and processes, there is not a discernible trace of confusion anywhere. Everybody knows his job. If it is a skilled one—and most of them require some skill—the workman—or woman—has had some training in a vocational school, before being hired. Once hired, they know what they are supposed to do, know how to do it and do it.

SEVERAL things strike those given the chance to view such a plant in detail as well as to see the whole picture. One is that to organize and run so vast an establishment there must be brains pretty close to genius at the top. The contrast between the smooth efficiency with which the system works is particularly impressive to one accustomed to the indescribable confusion of governmental Washington. Another is the cooperative spirit which seems to animate the working men—and women, too. Another is that the women are paid the same wages as the men for comparable work. Nor is there any segregation of the sexes. That was tried but abandoned. Now men and women work side by side without friction or foolishness.

The average pay is a little over $5 a day, which at a plant such as the Consolidated Aircraft at San Diego, makes the weekly payroll for three shifts of five days each really stupendous. Despite the President's resistance to the effort, unquestionably production would be greatly increased. (Continued On Page Seven)

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN

Exclusive—"Inside Kiernan" has solved the mystery of who threw the overalls in Mrs. Murphy's chowder.

It was the fiend who rubbed out Cock Robin.

We have only two cases remaining on our books.

(1) Who threw the paving blocks into Ed Flynn's courtyard?

(2) Who threw the ping-pong division of the war into Paul McNutt's backyard?

So far we have established beyond reasonable doubt that (1) Ed Flynn, chairman of the Democratic national committee, has a courtyard and (2) there are paving blocks in it.

The rest of the trail is blotched up with the hot prints of professional and semi-coach-can posers.

But it is a clearer road than case X which we have ticketed under McNutt et al. et cetera and et tu brute?

Mr. McNutt's department obviously has become the district 50 of the federal government.

Thought for the Day: Have you a little courtyard?

HAPPYGRAMS

by ERICH BRANDEIS

One of the finest things done by a government agency in this war is the sales campaign of Defense Savings Stamps by newspaper carrier boys.

Here are many thousands of American youngsters proudly doing their bit in the war.

Their only incentive is patriotism; their only reward the knowledge that they are doing a man's job for their country.

In one week these chaps have sold more than 120 million stamps. Every bomber, every ship, every tank, every gun these boys have helped to build.

When victory comes, the badge of merit, which they receive, will be their distinguished service medal.

And what employer when he sees a job-seeking carrier boy's honorable discharge won't say:

"Here is a boy I want! He has served his country well; he'll serve me well!"

Shelby Chorus At Epworth Church

Special evangelistic services which have been in progress in the Coal-town Free Methodist church for the past two weeks will close Sunday evening, March 22.

Rev. O. L. Mumaw from Indianapolis, Ind., has been the evangelist and will bring his closing message on Sunday evening. His theme will be "No Remedy."

Rev. D. E. Joseph is pastor of Coaltown church.

Appearing at Epworth Methodist church on Sunday evening will be the Shelby male chorus of 50 voices from the National Tube company's Ellwood Works. A most excellent program will be presented by this group of men which has won considerable distinction at it has appeared in a large number of cities recently.

Included in the repertoire will be two numbers which secured for this group the first prize last year at the Trumbull County Elstidedd at Warren, O. These selections are, "Night and Dawn" by Owen and "Swan White" by Giger Le Mon. The leader of this chorus is James P. Croft. Miss Irene Rounour is the pianist, and L. R. Davis, general manager.

This group appeared at Epworth about a year ago and made a great impression and will doubtless make a most attractive appeal to music lovers by this concert on Sunday evening.

Seminary Chorus At Croton Church

College Group To Present Musical Program In Methodist Church Sunday Afternoon

The a cappella chorus of Chesbrought Seminary, an academy and junior college at North Chili, N. Y., is to present a program of sacred songs at Croton Methodist church on Sunday, March 22, at 3 p. m.

This organization of 35 mixed voices, now on its tenth annual tour, has presented its programs to appreciative audiences throughout the East and Middle West. The chorus is composed of young men and women of the collegiate department of the school who sing all of their numbers from memory, unaccompanied. Their repertoire includes classical religious selections, spirituals and a number of old hymns of the church.

WEEK-END SCHEDULE OF RESCUE MISSION

The regular praise and testimony meeting will be held at the City Rescue Mission this evening at 8 o'clock with the superintendent, A. W. Gibson, in charge.

Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock the Sunday school will convene. Plans are being made for the children's treat to be given at Easter time. The Back Home Hour is scheduled for 10 p. m. at the mission.

Due to the fact that the music staff of the mission will be taking part in the revival at the First Baptist church, there will not be any 8 p. m. service Sunday. The mission is cooperating with the First Baptist church in the revival.

Revival Closing

Expect Increases In Attendance To Continue Through Easter

Tomorrow will be the sixth Sunday of the "All Out Defense Increase Campaign" which is being sponsored by the Lawrence County Sabbath School association, which ends Easter Sunday, and the indications are that both church and Sunday school attendance will be on the increase for these three remaining Sundays.

The first goal of the campaign, an increase in Evangelism, is being stressed by most of the county and city Sunday schools and churches, as special services are being held of an evangelistic nature are part of the pre-Easter programs. Bible study is also being stressed and a county leadership training school is being planned, and will be announced later.

It is remarkable to note the good attendances of the Sunday schools as a whole despite the number of young men who are in the country's service, and others in defense industries who are not able to attend regularly due to their work. Now, as never before, the spiritual values need to be stressed to meet present emergencies.

The present standings may be entirely changed by the attendances of the last three Sundays, as one Sunday's good attendance may put one of the participants at the head of the group. Visitation of absent members is one of the best ways to increase Sunday school attendance, and it is real missionary work.

The winning Sunday schools will be presented with their awards at the next annual convention of the Lawrence County Sabbath School association, which will be held Thursday, June 11, the place to be announced in the near future. An award will also be made to the Sunday school having the best percentage of attendance to remain for the morning worship service throughout the campaign.

It's got so ordinary poor people can scarcely make ends meet while living like rich people.

Sweden Takes Spotlight In Hitler's Latest Plans

By CAPTAIN JOHN H. CRAIG
U. S. Marine Corps, Retired.
Written Especially for International News Service

With Adolf Hitler reported to be making his assault divisions in Germany's Baltic provinces, the spotlight of attention swings to Sweden, where the unhappy government of 64-year-old King Gustav tries desperately to balance on its tightrope of tenuous neutrality.

Evidence over the past two weeks points unerringly to the fact that the Nazis are giving more than passing thought to Scandinavia. Swedish sources report that the German garrison in Norway has been raised from 150,000 to nearly twice that number. London dispatches record the presence of the huge super dreadnaught Tirpitz, accompanied by cruisers and one or more pocket battleships in Norwegian waters.

United Nations submarines, bombers and light naval craft are reported unusually active close to the coast of Norway, raiding German ore-ships from the great iron port of Narvik. Around Norway's north cape an increasing stream of allied shipping carries supplies destined for Russia's hard-pressed Red army.

If the Germans held Sweden their grip on Norway would be immeasurably strengthened. They would then be in a better position to interfere with the transportation of British and American supplies to Russia and might be able to open a new front against the Soviets. This is painfully apparent to the Swedes.

The Stockholm government meantime has increased its protestations of neutrality, suppressing more than a dozen Swedish newspapers that published news likely to offend Nazi susceptibilities. New clashes of nerves have been called to the colors and border guards strengthened. If the Swedes are attacked they seem likely to put up a desperate battle, but against the German colossus of war it is not probable that they can defend their country for very long.

The irony of Sweden's present situation is that she owes it to the fact that she had been too enlightened and moral a nation for her own good. For a hundred years she has practiced the golden rule and whittled nobody. She has settled all her disputes by arbitration and whittled her army and navy down to watch-charm size. So she finds herself unarmed and helpless.

Time was when things were different. A few hundred years ago Sweden was one of the toughest and fiercest nations in the world. She and her kindred Norse and Danes were the Dead End Kids of the middle ages. They were tough, tough.

and pitiful. If they'd stayed hard-boiled and militaristic kept a big army and fought a few wars now and then for practice, they would have been in no danger from the Nazis or anybody else.

Strange how times change and people change with them. The Scandinavians today are mostly international pacifists, but for a thousand years their name was a synonym for fantastic courage displayed in aggressive war.

They carried their savage freebooting from Iceland to the equator and left their blood in many lands. Danes and Swedes under King Canute conquered England. A Norseman named Rollo conquered France and settled in Normandy, named for his northern home. His grandson, William the Conqueror, overran England, and others of his descendants conquered parts of Spain, Italy and Sicily.

When the Middle Ages passed, the Norseman quite their Viking-raiding and settled down a trifling, but they still remained one of the most powerful fighting nations of Europe. Gustavus Adolphus, Sweden's king from 1611 to 1632, found little difficulty in standing the Russians on their heads and licking the German empire of his day to a standstill in the 30-year war.

The Swedes seem finally to have sworn off fighting on account of Gustavus' great-grandson, Charles XII. He was a great general but his victories were costly. He licked the Russians of Peter the Great, so many times that he practically ran out of Sweden. Since that time Sweden hasn't really fought anybody.

"Food Will Win War" Good Slogan

Same Slogan Was Used During First World War Says College Dean

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., March 21.—Recalling that "food will win the war" was an effective slogan in 1917-18, Dean S. W. Fletcher, of the school of agriculture at Pennsylvania State college, said that the same slogan may be equally applicable during the present emergency.

Every department in the school of agriculture is contributing to the nation's war effort, Dean Fletcher said. Activities include an effort to find substitutes for copper and lead, now used for insecticides; developing new seeds for grasses and legumes formerly imported from Europe; studying the cost of producing farm commodities; and studying human nutrition problems for use in planning diets for the armed forces and civilians.

The landscape architecture department is concerned with the camouflage of highways, industrial plants and military emplacements; graduates of the agricultural and biological chemistry department are engaged in such war industries as explosives, poison gas, and scientific instruments; and the forestry department is giving instruction in the construction of emergency roads and bridges.

In an all-out effort to increase food production, the extension division of the school has distributed 135,000 circulars on methods of increasing milk production, 70,000 leaflets on methods of increasing egg production, 100,000 leaflets on the home production and use of vegetables in connection with the National Victory Garden program, and 100,000 circulars on human nutrition in relation to health and war needs.

In addition, over 800 meetings and demonstrations on the care and repair of farm machinery, now difficult to replace, have been arranged, and 1,500 meetings on human nutrition have been held since last September.

U. S. Bomber Crews Taking Heavy Toll In Far East Attacks

transfer of Gen. Douglas MacArthur from the Philippines to Australia as supreme commander of United Nations forces in the southwest Pacific.

To date, American Army and Navy aerial units, in cooperation with Australian and United Nations forces, are credited with sinking and damaging at least 13 Japanese warships, 18 other enemy vessels and 13 Rising Sun planes, in addition to scoring hits on important airport and harbor installations.

Striking Fearlessly

Still outnumbered—but now not so hopelessly—the American and United Nations pilots are striking fearlessly at Jap bases on Timor, New Guinea and New Britain Islands, stretched across the roof of Australia in an offensive-defense that is taking a heavy toll of the enemy.

Principal targets of United Nations forces are Jap air bases and harbors at Koepang, on Timor Island; Salamaua and Lae, on New Guinea; Rabaul and Buai on New Britain; and air bases in the East Indies, Malaya and the Philippines is beginning to make itself evident in Australia in the form of successful raids on anything and everything that might be of value to the Japanese.

Recent communications indicate that American airmen seldom return to their bases without bombs expended.

Even lone bombers on patrol are well stocked with "tickets for Tokyo" and unload their deadly cargo on any likely target. Several days ago, one flying fortress damaged enemy runways at Rabaul and destroyed two grounded planes.

Not Deterred By Japs

Nor do enemy pursuit planes deter American bomber pilots from the missions, as proved by a recent communiqué which stated that four-motored United States planes shot down five attacking aircraft which carried out successful raids on buildings and other installations at Salamaua and Lae.

There is little doubt in the nation's capital that whatever strategy MacArthur and his staff of Americans and United Nations officers work out, its only aim will be day-by-day destruction of Japanese units while plans are being formulated for a general offensive.

Japanese tactics are aimed at control of all major bases north of Australia for the purpose of cutting the shipping lanes to the United States over which vast quantities of war materials must be shipped.

So the fate of northern Australia and the future course of the Pacific hinges definitely on the outcome of battles now raging in the far east.

While the picture is concerned is far from bright, military experts contend that the 15th week of warfare has brought developments that should bring defeat eventually to the Pacific invaders.

And the principal development of course, was MacArthur's promotion to supreme command—at the request of the Australian government.

Gives Details Of MacArthur's Dash

Big. Gen. Casey Tells Of Escape From Philippines To Australia

(International News Service)
MELBOURNE, March 21.—Details of the intrepid dash of General MacArthur from the Philippines to Australia were revealed today by Brigadier General H. J. Casey, chief engineer of the United States forces in the Philippines, who accompanied him.

"The journey was planned with the utmost secrecy," declared the general. "Seventy-foot speed boats known as 'Q' boats were assembled at different points on the Bataan Peninsula loaded to the limit with equipment and baggage."

"As dusk on March 11 the party boarded the vessels, and at 8 p.m. the vessels shot out toward sea. Throughout the night, said Casey, the party sped over a moderate sea without sighting any Japanese ships or aircraft."

"At 2:15 a.m. my boat broke down and I was transferred to one of the others, and their way. The fourth continued on after 40 minutes of frantic work and rejoined the group."

Casey recalled that they just before nightfall a Japanese destroyer was sighted on the horizon. "We waited breathlessly, but we were not seen. Darkness came finally with no more incidents," he said.

"At midnight we reached the island from which we took off by air for Australia."

Henry M. Mateja In U. S. Marines

Undergoes Operation So That He Can Help United States Win War

Rejected in January, Henry M. Mateja, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Mateja, 15 Maple street, yesterday enlisted in the United States Marine Corps.

Eager to join the Marines, Mateja went to Pittsburgh for the physical examination but was rejected. Informed that he'd have to undergo an operation before he would be eligible, Mateja went under the knife. Yesterday, he passed.

Two other men were enlisted through the New Castle recruiting office yesterday, Staff Sgt. John L. Robert, 387 Delaware avenue, Sharon; Nick L. Trotta, 1021 Hamilton street, Farrell.

NO PROTECTION FROM UNIONS

Consuming Public, Farmers
And Independent Business Men Said To Be At Their Mercy

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, March 21.—Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold today told Congress that the consuming public, farmers, and independent businessmen have no legal protection against "the organized coercion" of unions.

Arnold made the allegation before the House judiciary committee which is considering a bill to compel labor unions to register with the secretary of commerce and make public financial statements.

"This bill certainly would have some effect on the situation, but I don't think it goes far enough," Arnold told the committee.

"When you look at the entire picture," Arnold continued, "the situation is putting a very substantial handicap on the production and distribution of civilian necessities."

"It is hamstringing independent businessmen, impeding the distribution of housing and food, and doing it at a time when we are trying to save the consumer."

Declaring that under present law "we have given labor a formula that is just how to do these things," Arnold, head of the anti-trust division of the justice department, asserted:

"No trade association or other group in our society could employ these tactics. They would be indicted instantly."

Covering virtually the whole field of American economy, Arnold told the committee:

"That unions are forcing small firms out of business by compelling them to hire 'useless labor' or by refusing to work for them until 'independent businessmen all over the country are completely at the mercy of any organized labor group.'"

And there is nothing in the law to prevent labor from "using organized coercion to raise the price of necessities" by threatening strikes or boycotts unless prices are kept up.

That organized labor is exploiting some workers themselves by compelling them to belong to many unions and by undemocratic production of packing members in order to assure leadership.

That in the shipbuilding industry the some men were forced to join and pay dues to from 15 to 18 unions each.

"When they work on one deck they must belong to one union and when on another deck, another union, and so on," he said. "One man we know of had to join 18 different unions, but that was an extreme case."

Arnold charged that labor is "restricting the efficient use of men, machines and materials." He cited the case of pre-fabricated materials being boycotted and declared:

"I am asserting that it is impossible to get mass production of cheap housing going in the United States under present conditions."

Metal Furniture Ban Is Ordered Starting May 31

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, March 21.—Production of metal household furniture—everything from tables and chairs to mirror frames and shoe racks—will be stopped after May 31, the W.P.B. announced today.

The order is designed to conserve critical materials. Conversion of the industry to war production also is planned.

The ban includes porch and garden furniture, ornamental wall brackets, beach and lawn umbrellas, kitchen cabinets, medicine cabinets, smoking stands and ash trays, porcelain table tops and coat and hat racks.

Our chief weakness is that one course appeals to the citizen's patriotism and another to his pocketbook.

The London Times was the first newspaper to be printed by steam instead of by manual labor.

Heavy Sentence Is Given Woman In Forgery Cases

One of the most severe sentences handed out to a woman in the Lawrence county courts in years—save for murder—was meted out today to Margaret Abbott, alias Margaret McKee. She was sentenced to 10 years imprisonment in the Muncy Industrial Home for Women on each of four counts of forgery. The sentences run concurrently so that instead of 40 years she actually got a 10-year sentence.

She had pleaded guilty to the 40 charges of forgery brought against her by C. M. McKee, J. Clifford Wallace, Norman Duff and others. The record shows that since 1939 she had mislaid about $5,000 through her penmanship. Judges W. Walter Braham and John G. Lamoree were on the bench.

James F. Miller, up for driving while intoxicated, was fined $100 and costs and given 30 days to the county jail. He will be paroled in three days if the fine and costs are paid.

"Victory" Program Will Be Repeated

Prof. Frank L. Burton of Benjamin Franklin junior high school announces that the assembly program put on by members of the school at the auditorium on Friday evening at 8 o'clock will be repeated by request on Monday evening at the same time.

The general theme is "Victory". The actual title of the program is "Ben Franklin Junior High School's March of Time to Victory."

This is made up of about 20 living pictures depicting what the school is doing toward the "Victory" program. A few of the pictures are "home nursing", "Red Cross first aid", "paper conservation", "moral building" and "shop defense work".

Air Raid Shelter Offers Protection From Gas, Bombs

War Department Tests Demonstrate That New Shelter Is Highly Resistant To Shrapnel

(International News Service)
MIDDLETOWN, O., March 21.—An air raid shelter that offers protection from gas and demolition bombs by being manufactured for use by industrial workers as well as members of the armed forces.

This new type of shelter, in tests by the War Department, demonstrated that it is highly resistant to splinters, blasts, shrapnel, debris from falling buildings, and earth shock. Bombs were detonated anywhere from 10 to 30 feet from the shelter. When a 600-pound bomb was exploded only 10 feet away, damage to the shelter was relatively slight but the resulting earth crater was 35 feet in diameter and eight feet deep.

Installed Near Office

The shelter was designed to give protection from bombs falling not closer than 25 feet, and it may be installed in the open on a hillside or in connection with an office or a factory.

At least three feet of earth should cover the shelter, for earth shock tends to lift rather than crush it, when it is installed with mid-diameter slightly above the natural ground level.

The shelter was designed to accommodate 50 persons, largest number recommended by the Office of Civilian Defense. It is 50 feet long and seven and one half feet high, but may be shortened as the metal sections come in lengths of two and one half feet.

Made Of Corrugated Steel

Curved and corrugated steel sections—similar to those used for bridges and large drainage structures—compose the main portion of the air raid shelter.

A gas lock may be made an integral part of the shelter or installed later. The main section is made of gas and water-tight by sealing the joints with mastic. An escape hatch while a gas-tight steel door guards the entrance.

In the event debris blocks the entrance in an air raid, occupants may get out through a 30-inch escape tunnel. The door is shielded from falling debris by a canopy, while explosion walls protect the entrance from a frontal blast. Baricades may be installed parallel to the entrance walls so that users of the shelter may enter from two sides.

Tests show that side blasts tend to pass through the entrance walkways with relatively light force.

Planning To Halt Private And Non-Defense Building

By PHILLIPS J. PECK
International News Service
Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 21.—All private and non-defense residential and industrial construction will be eliminated under a series of orders scheduled to be issued by the war production board within a week or 10 days, it learned today.

W. W. Timmis, chief of the W. P. B. plumbing and heating branch, disclosed that the orders already have been prepared and are in the process of obtaining final clearance.

The plumbing and heating branch, he said, has prepared orders to "freeze" current stocks and prevent the use or manufacture of plumbing and heating equipment except for defense housing and defense plant construction.

Provision will be made, however, for essential repairs.

The orders, Timmis said, are aimed at construction of critical metals and conversion of part of the $1,000,000,000 plumbing and heating industry to production of war materials.

At the same time, it was reported that a new construction division will be set up within the W. P. B. The new division, it was said, will be headed by W. V. Kahler, present chief of the construction branch of the production division and will embrace all construction activities within the W. P. B.

The new unit reportedly will administer the stop-construction, through priority ratings. Stocks of building supplies in non-defense areas, it was said, will be whittled down to the bare amount sufficient for repair and maintenance and the excess drawn off into defense areas.

It was pointed out that elimination of private and non-essential construction will be required by the tremendous expansion of defense building this year, to say nothing of the need for conserving materials and converting industry.

Timmis explained that it was impossible to suspend all construction as of a given date. He said that contractors with work already under way will be able to appeal for priority assistance to obtain material necessary to complete construction of such projects.

Detour On Road From Butler To Slippery Rock

BUTLER, Pa., March 21.—Route 8, north of Butler, will be closed to vehicular traffic Monday morning, it was learned today at the local office of the construction company which is building the new stretch of highway between the Campbell farm and the Old Stone House.

It will be necessary to close the thoroughfare, commonly known as the Butler-Slippery Rock road, pending the building of the new road over the recently adopted course.

None of the representatives of the construction company would hazard a guess on how long it would be necessary to keep the highway closed.

Meantime, a detour for Butler to Slippery Rock Traffic and return will be established by way of Route 422 and Prospect.

Student Pilot Is Hurt In Crash

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, March 21.—A 33-year-old Pittsford student pilot battled for his life in West Penn hospital today, victim of a plane crash near Pittsford airport in which a companion instructor was instantly killed.

Karl H. Vetter, of Penn township, 41, an instructor for the Pittsburgh Aviation corporation, was killed when the light training plane in which he and H. C. Best were flying crashed in an attempted forced landing.

Best, with a fractured skull and jaw and internal injuries was reported in critical condition. Hospital attendants said his condition was "not very good" this morning. Police believed Best owned the plane and was licensed to fly but not to carry passengers.

TO BUILD WILMINGTON ROAD

In addition to the reconstruction of route 422 this summer, the road to New Wilmington will be improved, county commissioners say.

From Walmo to the intersection near the Bruce Johnston farm will be three-way and from this intersection the road will be built across the present dirt by-pass to the intersection of route 18, and the road leading to Pulaski.

The improvement has been talked of for the past several years, but the decision to build it is definitely fixed for this summer, the commissioners say.

ASKS JUDGMENT

In the office of Prothonotary and Clerk of Courts John A. Edgar, Janet Shane has filed a suit to collect a judgment rendered in Mahoning county against James Speed.

The claim states that a suit in trespass was filed in Mahoning county, O., in April, 1936, and judgment rendered for $1,000. The plaintiff wants to collect the $1,000, with interest from March 25, 1937.

Christian Church Revival Services

Central Christian Church Evangelistic Campaign Will Open Sunday Evening

Revival services to continue through April 3, will begin Sunday evening, March 22, at 7:30 o'clock in Central Christian church with Rev. Raymond Colas, pastor and Bible teacher from Monessen, speaking on the subject, "Four Views of God."

On Sunday evening, Thraddess Stevens school choir, under the direction of Emma Gibbons and Louise Davies, will present several special selections.

The church pastor, Rev. Sidney K. Bliss, announces the following special events for the coming week: Monday, roll call of church officers; Tuesday, family night with an award to be given the largest family present; Wednesday, Young People's night; Thursday, roll call of Bible school teachers and officers; Friday, homecoming night.

Two Destroyers Slide Down Ways

(International News Service) KEARNY, N. J., March 21.—Two more destroyers slid down the ways at the Federal Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company Yards Friday, one of them being sponsored by Mrs. Arthur MacArthur, sister-in-law of the new supreme commander of United Nations forces in the southwest Pacific.

A son, Bowman, and daughter-in-law stood nearby. Mrs. MacArthur as she christened the U.S.S. McCalla which was named in honor of her father, the late Rear Admiral Bowman H. McCalla.

But before the McCalla was launched in the presence of several naval officers, the U.S.S. Lardner, sponsored by Mrs. Sidney F. Tyler, 2nd, slid down the ways. Mrs. Tyler is a great granddaughter of the late Rear Admiral James Lawrence Lardner, U.S.N., for whom the destroyer was named.

IT IS also a mistake to think that the recent movement, sponsored by Mr. Nelson, for the creation of labor management committees in all defense plants meets a demand from the workers. The demand comes from the Murray-Hillman plan for CIO leaders. It is announced as a drive to increase production, originating with the WPB. Actually, it originated in the Murray-Hillman group and stems a purely sure way of slowing down the industrial machine just as it is getting into its stride. No amount of WPB publicity or Nelson pep talks will alter the fact that this move is a step toward the goal of labor management. It is a tragic thing that in so grave a crisis the labor union should be so potent in Washington.

Harvey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil McAnallen, of the Harbor-East Brook road, has been brought from the Temple University hospital, Philadelphia, and taken to the Jameson Memorial hospital here for a rest period after the trip here. Harvey will be 13 years of age, March 30.

One month ago, at Temple hospital, he underwent a serious heart operation, also one for a blood clot in his leg.

His father was with him while at Philadelphia.

Harvey is getting along nicely.

Just how price fixing is going to pan out in the long run if the war strings along indefinitely, is a problem for anyone Leon Henderson probably included. To tell a purveyor of supplies that he can charge only so much for "em" may be made to slide, so far as his salesmanship is concerned, but he can quit selling, which he's likely to do before submitting to going broke. And then what?

There has been a price bulge already of around 20 per cent, counting everything, on an average.

The generality of us haven't felt it so violently yet, because a majority of us have a certain amount of more or less permanent things on hand, and can worry along on 'em for the present. Illustratively, groceries have gone up, and while we feel the advance, they're only one bunch of items. But the normal guy has an accumulation of two or three suits of clothes. They will frazzle out ultimately, and then we'll find the next outfit more costly and minus two pairs of pants per coat and vest. The misses' raiment will be at a higher rating also, and the kids'.

What'll 20 per cent advance be like when it becomes a 100 per cent advance at the rate of 22 per cent per each necessity?

And it may not stop at 20 per cent per each.

Can Leon Henderson keep on his lid then?

Register April 27

WASHINGTON, March 21.—President Roosevelt is going to register on April 27 along with all the other men aged between 45 and 64, he told his press conference Friday.

He said he would register, despite the statement of his secretary, Stephen T. Early, last night, that the chief executive, as commander-in-chief of the armed forces, is exempt.

creased if the 40-hour week could be lengthened to 48 hours. Quickly, it would leap ahead of Mr. Roosevelt's program and the full weight of American industry be made to count. But the time and a half pay for every hour over 40 is a prohibitive penalty. In a plant such as the Consolidated, it would involve so huge an increase in the payroll as to be clearly impossible. Piled on top of taxes, the increase would compel the company to operate at a deficit and put it well on the road to bankruptcy. This isn't a guess. It is a fact easily demonstrated by the figures. Yet, if it were possible to get men legally to work six consecutive days of eight hours each, the jump in production would be great.

Even with the 40-hour week, what is being accomplished commands respect, though it checks far short of what could be done if the rigidity of the labor laws on this one point were relaxed. The interesting thing is that there is no real opposition to the relaxation from the rank and file of labor. The opposition comes from the labor leaders, not from the men, just as the demand for the Murray-Hillman plan for labor participation in management comes not from the men but from the high salaried lobbyists.

IF IT were not for the support given these by the President and the compliant Mr. Nelson the 40-hour week law long ago would have been modified and production be far ahead of the present mark. It cannot be done so long as the White House and the head of the War Production Board are against it, but it is a mistake to think there is strong feeling on the subject among the mass of the workers, themselves.

IT IS also a mistake to think that the recent movement, sponsored by Mr. Nelson, for the creation of labor management committees in all defense plants meets a demand from the workers. The demand comes from the Murray-Hillman plan for CIO leaders. It is announced as a drive to increase production, originating with the WPB. Actually, it originated in the Murray-Hillman group and stems a purely sure way of slowing down the industrial machine just as it is getting into its stride. No amount of WPB publicity or Nelson pep talks will alter the fact that this move is a step toward the goal of labor management. It is a tragic thing that in so grave a crisis the labor union should be so potent in Washington.

SOMEWHERE IN AUSTRALIA, March 21—This war is producing laughs as well as tears and for a change of pace here are three comedies that might have been tragedies.

Muscular, sandy-haired Lieut. Jim Smith of Fort Wayne, Ind., recounts the first incident.

"Recently I was on the edge of a certain field when the Japs began bombing and strafing it. A civilian and I raced for shelter.

"About 20 yards away there was a ditch about three feet wide and six feet deep. It was a disposal ditch, and although the bombs were falling all around I didn't like the looks of it. I kept on running, but the civilian went in head first.

"When the strafers passed I climbed from a fox hole 50 yards away and saw the civilian trying to get himself cleaned up. He was a sorry sight. Then the Japs came back again. I was unable to move and might have been killed right there on the ground. The civilian never hesitated. He dived right back into the duck.

"He is now, I might say, the bitterest man against the Japs I have ever seen."

Australian Recounts Story
An Australian recounted our next story.

"One of our chaps, named Bernard Cedarholme," said the Australian, "was returning alone from a mission in a certain spot I left recently and I heard him telling his adventure.

"It seems a lone Jap Zero plane and himself had a dogfight in otherwise peaceful skies.

"The Jap jumped him from the rear and the battle began.

"The Jap peppered the American plane but failed to down him. You have great planes, you know.

"Eventually both ran out of ammunition. The American plane was hard hit and couldn't make much speed, and the Jap circled close around and around, evidently puzzled as to what was keeping the American up.

"At last the Jap rode close alongside, grinned and waved goodbye, shaking his head.

"The American landed his damaged plane safely and himself unhurt."

The third episode is recounted by an Australian sergeant.

"Some time ago I saw the Japs machine-gunning an American ship in a harbor up north. Everybody dived overboard.

"The last man over was a young fellow. I watched him swim a few yards, then suddenly turn back and climb aboard again, and duck below decks.

Went Back for Watch
"In a few seconds he came back and dived overboard again into the water.

"I helped him out of the water," said the Aussie sergeant, "and asked him why he went back on the ship.

"He said he had to get his good luck watch."

"He told me it was a cheap affair and didn't keep good time, but he couldn't live without it. Strange blokes, you Americans," added the sergeant.

I explained that the same daring spirit which prompted the youngster to risk his life for a good luck watch would be handy in rolling back the Japs.

He agreed.

GIRL RESERVE TRIP

With the approach of spring come plans for the annual Girl Reserve trip to Pittsburgh. The planning committee for this trip, composed of two representatives from each G. R. club, has already had two meetings, first to discuss the requests which came in from the different clubs, and later, to draw up the final itinerary.

All plans are now complete for the trip which will be Tuesday, March 31, with Girl Reserves and their leaders arranging to leave the Y. W. C. A. at 7 a. m. Going by train has always been a treat for many girls who have never traveled that way but the bus transportation of last year, with its greater accommodation and cheaper rate, has influenced opinion in favor of that method of travel again for this year.

On the committee that has planned the trip are: From the Franklin club, Marjorie Scullo and Joanne Dart; Washington Seventh and Eighth club, Winifred Kisthart and Shirley Carnes; Washington Ninth and Tenth club, Lillian Adams and Alys McGrath; Elm Street senior club, Corneal Bazley; Elm Street junior club, Juanita Jarvis and Dorothy Crunkleton; Shenango, Wilma Booher, Florence Badger; Ne-Ca-Hi senior club, Virginia Hanna and Norma Hamm.

In keeping with the democratic procedure that Girl Reserves of the Y. W. C. A. think so important, all clubs have participated in plans for this trip by placing requests with the committee of where they wanted to visit and the clubs have chosen the type of tour they want at the Carnegie Museum and the menu they want for luncheon.

All permits with the signature of a parent or guardian, along with the fee, must be turned in to the Y. W. C. A. not later than Wednesday, March 25.

SENIOR GIRL RESERVES

A cabinet meeting of Senior girl reserves was held Thursday evening at the Y. W. C. A., Audrey Evans, club president, presided.

Plans were completed for an acquaintance party to take place March 23, after the regular meeting.

Those in charge of various duties are: music, Mildred Shoaf; devotion, Margaret Hogan; service, Bernice Taylor; program, Mary Ferrar; social, Shirley Hanna; publicity, Claire Kohn; membership, Anita Sacco; finance, Ruth Morrow.

Also discussed were the junior membership day, jewelry project and girl reserves annual trip to Pittsburgh on March 31.

ITALIAN MOTHERS CLUB

Members of the Italian Mothers club met Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock, in the Green room of the Y. W. C. A., and reports were given on the party held recently.

A play has been planned, to be presented in April, entitled, "Please Be Seated." Those to take part include: Mrs. Josephine Palumbo, Mrs. Yolanda Flamingo, Mrs. Daya Russo, Mrs. Elizabeth Peluso, Mrs. Catherine Gillett, Mrs. Mary Fiedler, Mrs. Margaret Toscano, Mrs. Lucy Gizzi and Mrs. Frances DelSignore.

Hostesses who served a dainty lunch later were: Mrs. Mary Fiedler, Mrs. Sandra Ricci, and Mrs. Antoinette Cascaella.

Games and contests were played later, high score awards going to Mrs. Lena Vericella, Mrs. Catherine Gillett and Mrs. Antoinette Armando.

April 9 is the date for the next meeting with Mrs. Rose Retort, Mrs. Catherine Gillett and Mrs. Eleanor Lavelle, in charge as hostesses.

SYMBOL PROJECT

For several years the Girl Reserve Interclub Council of the Young Women's Christian association has sponsored a symbol project. This project, frequently referred to as the jewelry project, will begin at the Y. W. C. A. on Tuesday, March 24, at eleven o'clock in the morning or 4:15 in the afternoon, depending on the school session, and is open to any Girl Reserve who wishes to become a wearer of the G. R. symbol. Since the emphasis in the course as set up by the Interclub Council is on the meaning of the symbol which is found on all Girl Reserve jewelry, the name jewelry project as it has been called before is a term not as truly significant of the real meaning as the term symbol project.

The symbol of Girl Reserves is the triangle within the circle. The triangle represents the individual club member; the circle, the world in which she lives. As a girl strives "to face life squarely and to find and give the best," her triangle expands like her growing self. The points of her expanding triangle mark out an ever-expanding circle that symbolizes the world in which she lives and serves.

The project will culminate in a ceremonial to be given on Junior Membership Day, April 25, when the girls will receive their jewelry.

On the Girl Reserve Interclub Council are two representatives from each club, and they include: from Shenango high, Mary Abraham and Ethel Park; Ne-Ca-Hi senior club, Mildred Hoch and Marian Wallace; Ne-Ca-Hi junior club, Mary Vaughn and Ida Mae Ashton; Elm Street senior, Martha Ann Strothers and Ella Pearl Wright; Elm Street junior, Shirley Webber and Juanita Jarvis; Elm Street Wonderland, Clarissa Ward and Evelyn Walker; Franklin, Eileen Evans and Gwendolyn Mae Richards; Mahoningtown, Martha Saunders and Margaret Prakopi; Washington seventh and eighth grade club, Edith Dufford and Marilyn Cutright; Washington ninth and tenth club, Mary Louise Ward and Mary Lou Mahoney.

New Castle Youth Gets Employment—Nearly 270 Youths At Center

Employment of Alex Abraham of this city as an auto mechanic, as the result of his NYA work experience and related training, was announced today by John C. Pella, director of the New Castle National Youth Administration residential defense work center.

The local youth had been living at the New Castle NYA Center for the past five and a half months where he was preparing himself for private employment through actual work and related training. This youth was enrolled in the auto mechanics work shop requiring various automotive equipment for public agencies. He was also taking courses in training related to this work given under the supervision of the local schools and the state department of public instruction.

Alex is one of a number of young men from the New Castle NYA Center who have obtained jobs during the past two months. The great majority of these youths have obtained jobs with defense plants.

At the present time there are approximately 265 youths from all sections of Pennsylvania working at the New Castle Center, preparing themselves for war industry jobs.

At the Center the youth live in a cooperative society, and are paid $30 a month, $20 of which is returned for board, room, medical attention, and other services. The Center itself consists of fourteen buildings and three shops. The shops afford opportunity for youth to gain experience in machine shop, welding, and sheet metal work.

Probing Charges
Dollar-A-Year Men
Hamper War Moves

By ARTHUR HERMANN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 21—A congressional investigating committee today planned to summon leaders of industry and high ranking officials of the War Production Board to testify in the inquiry into allegations that dollar-a-year men within the WPB hampered plans to convert shops and factories to war needs.

The investigation entered its third day with no reply from the WPB in answer to the charges of Robert R. Guthrie, resigned chief of the textile branch, that some WPB officials maintained selfish interests and hindered his efforts to put into effect an all-out war production plan.

For two days, Guthrie and his former executive assistant, George Doherty, had detailed instances containing multiple inferences that industry groups represented in the war agency tried to bring profits to themselves at the expense of the war effort.

Guthrie has steadfastly refused, however, to name companies which in his opinion were unco-operative with the all-out production program laid down by WPB Chief Donald M. Nelson.

Gen. MacArthur Left Orders To Attack! Attack!

By J. C. OESTREICHER
International News Service
Foreign Editor

General Douglas MacArthur is in Australia, getting things all set for an offensive against the Japanese, but his spirit lingers on in the embattled Philippines.

An electrifying communique from the war department at Washington today revealed that before leaving Bataan to take up his post as supreme commander of United Nations forces in the southwest Pacific, MacArthur left behind him orders that must have said with utmost simplicity:

"Attack, attack, attack!"

So General Jonathan M. (Sinny) Wainwright, who inherited the Bataan job when MacArthur left, sent his American and Filipino troops into a lightning attack against Japanese concentrations near Zamboanga on Mindanao Island at the extreme southern end of the Archipelago, inflicting heavy casualties and suffering only minor losses.

While reports from the Australian area said that a least one and perhaps two additional heavy Japanese cruisers had been sunk or put out of action by United Nations forces in the last few hours, and both British and Chinese forces in Burma scored new victories against the Japanese, the democratic world anxiously awaited the first actual move by General MacArthur to break the enemy's grip in the Pacific.

Changes Continue In Bowling Meet

(International News Service)

COLUMBUS, O., March 21—Schlitz Beer of Milwaukee today held second place in the five-man standings of the American Bowling Congress tournament following the second straight day which saw 12 changes among the top 10 in the four divisions.

Schlitz blasted the tenpins for 3-105 to roar into second place behind the Budweiser Beers of Chicago, who slugged out 3-131 Wednesday night. All Sorts Equipment of Flint, Mich., banged out 2-930 to take fourth position; Auto Club of Michigan, Detroit, fifth with 2-904; Frank Becker Recreation, Milwaukee, and Stoney Jones Beer, McKees Rocks, Pa., into triple tie for sixth with 2-892; Acme Furnace Fitting, Chicago, into ninth with 2-891; and Norge Rollators, Detroit, 2-888 for tenth.

Little Robert Tritschler, of Norwood, O., picked the world's championships to score his first 700 series in 15 years of keeling and as a result rested far in front of the field in the singles with a 731 count.

Dartmouth Wins Over Penn State

Lions Eliminated In N. C. A. A. Tourney, 44-39; Kentucky Shades Illinois, 46-44

MENTORS DESIRE 3 RULE CHANGES

By WILLIAM G. GAUDET
(International News Service)
NEW ORLEANS, March 21.—The Big Green of Dartmouth, champions of the Ivy League, and the Wildcats of the University of Kentucky, will clash in New Orleans tonight for the Eastern NCAA basketball championship.
The two quintets earned the right to meet each other by defeating Penn State and Illinois last night. Dartmouth downed Penn State, 44 to 39, while Kentucky lumbled the champions of the Big Ten, 46 to 44.
The winner of tonight's battle, will meet the Western NCAA champion for the national title at Kansas City March 23. Stanford and Colorado universities will meet in the finals of the Western play-offs at Kansas City tonight.
(Stanford won its way through the semi-finals at Kansas City last night by defeating Rice Institute of Houston, Tex., 53 to 47, while Colorado defeated Kansas University, 46 to 44.)
It was the unorthodox, one-handed shooting of the Dartmouth five, plus the brilliant rebound work of Jim Olson, that broke through the sliding zone defense of the Nittany Lions and sent the Penn State aggregation down to defeat.
In contrast to the relative slowness of the Dartmouth-Penn State encounter, the fighting Illinois and Kentucky out on a battle which was not definitely settled until the final whistle. Illinois led 22 to 20 at the half, and it was not until midway in the second period that Kentucky drew ahead.

Long Shots Tell
In the Dartmouth-Penn State encounter, the offensive tactics of the latter's champions were pitted against a seemingly impenetrable defense. That hit the basket with unerring accuracy and one-handed shooting broke down the Penn State defense, however.
Olson, 6 foot 5 inch center, and George Munroe, 6 foot forward, were the Dartmouth stars. Olson got eight field goals and three free throws, for 19 points, and Munroe the one-armed artist, got four field goals himself besides making several others possible.
Menke and Smiley were in good form for Illinois, getting 15 and 13 points, respectively, but failed to get sufficient support. Tico was the leading scorer for Kentucky, with 13 points, the Kentuckians succeeded in bottling up Andy Phillip, Illinois' great guard, who got but 6 points.
Among the spectators last night were members of the National Association of Basketball Coaches, who adjourned their annual convention after voting in favor of a return to the rectangular backboard and stitched ball. The fan-shaked backboard and molded ball were adopted last year over their prototypes.
The coaches also asked the national rules committee to: (1) Make the four-foot zone in the backboard mandatory; (2) call time out on all jumps until the ball has been legally trapped; and (3) permit a fifth personal foul in overtime.
The coaches declared the present college rules are in every major respect satisfactory.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS LAND

Streams in which trout will be stocked next week will be posted against sucker fishing according to Fish Warden Clint B. White. This means that you'll not be allowed to still fish for the bony fish in Taylor Run, Big Run, Hickory Creek, Deer Creek or Little Neshannock.

While writing of fish it may not be amiss to suggest that each fisherman endeavor in every possible way to make better friends with farmers upon whose property one fishes. No fences should be damaged and gates should not be left open for cattle to wander away.

Only a few days remain until those 50 or more year old sportsmen drop into a chair around a festive table in the Elks dining room and face a "surprise menu." Tuesday, 6:30 p. m. is the time. Tickets must be secured from Perry Green no later than tonight.

Russell Baxter, who rates tops among the amateur middleweights of Lawrence county, and for that matter, among many other counties, will meet stiff opposition when he stacks against Frankie Genaro, Youngstown, an ex-G. G. champion, here March 30. The match was made last night. Joe Biro, heavyweight who fought Harry Bobo here, will battle Billy Reale. These matches add spice to the fistie whirls one week from Monday.

Larry MacPhail, owner and Whitlow Wyatt, pitcher, Brooklyn Dodgers are set to odds over the Wyatt will draw this season. Wyatt wants $20,000 and Larry wants to pay $13,750, and "up" of $2,250 over Wyatt's pay last year.

Rustie Romance, 7-year-old owned by Paul Mellon of Pittsburgh, is the favorite today in the Sandhills Challenge steeplechase at Southern Pines. The Cubs will join the list of clubs to play night ball games this summer.

Frank O'Connor, Kansas City policeman, shot the best score ever made in competition with a .45 caliber automatic to take the rapid fire event of the national pistol matches at Tampa, Fla. He had 198, one more than the mark set last year by Harry Reeves, Detroit policeman.

Bessemer Club Names Officers

Bessemer Rod and Gun club elected the following officers during a recent meeting:
Lawrence Tennis, president; Paul Snyder, first vice president; Glenn Conner, second vice president; Web Stanley, treasurer; Jim Martin, secretary; Paul A. Kanenester and S. J. Irwin, auditors.
Next meeting will be held at the portable school building in Bessemer on Monday, April 20, at 7:30 o'clock. A luncheon will be served during the next session.

SHEPARD BARNES IS GOLF CHAMP

(International News Service)
ORMOND BEACH, Fla., March 21.—Shepard Barnes of Short Hills, N. J., today held the annual mid-winter invitational golf tournament championship. He defeated Don L. Moore of Essex Falls, N. J., the medalist, 5 and 4, in yesterday's title match.

Epworths Trip St. Vitus Cagers

Epworths Cop Series Opener, 32-26; Celtics Repel Globetrotters, 38-33

Epworth M. E. and the Celtics cagers Friday night copped the first of a series of games which will decide two Y. M. C. A. league championships.

Flashing almost perfect form on defense in the opening half, the Epworths trounced the strong St. Vitus flippers, 32-26 in the first of a three-game series which will produce a finalist for the church league crown.

By recess time, the Epworths sports a 19-4 edge. The Saints outscored the winners, 22-13, in the second half. The first half lead told the story. Wario and Nahas led the attack for the winners while Ciazza and Lauro shared honors for the losers.

In the House league play-off game the Celtics emerged with a 38-33 triumph in a bruising set. Moses, high man for the night, scorched the mesh for 19 points. The Celtic star played superbly. Stein featured for the Trotters.

Date of the next games will be announced.

Arranging Bouts For Friday Night

ELLWOOD CITY, March 21.—Johnny Stanko, Cleveland, and Billy Reale, Castlewood, heavyweights, will box again this time in Ellwood City, Friday night. They will appear in the Shelby Social club ring. Buck Chambers, West Pittsburg, will attempt a come-back against Bobby Quirke, at 160; Babe Retardo will box Rollin Horne, Melio Donnell vs. Joey Wright, 145, and several other bouts yet to be arranged.

SPORTS WORLD RAMBLINGS

Sports merry-go-round:—
If America's sporting congregation reacts like it did during World War I, baseball, basketball and other games will suffer a clean sock in the midriff. I spent the better part of two hours looking over The News' files of 1916, 1917 and 1918. The cold black figures told, as they always do, a true story. . . .

Locally, New Castle high canceled its track and field program. . . . A long rifle range was opened at the Y. M. C. A. . . . Baseball was confined to a minor circuit called the C. A. Junior league, and a scattering of independent teams. The Milton A. C. West Side Tigers, I. A. A. and several south side aggregations were among the sandlot organizations. . . .

With the exception of a few benefit shows, boxing was put to bed locally. "Babe" Picato and Patsy Branigan highlighted a Red Triangle Club benefit circus. . . . Auto races at Pulaski on July 4, 1918, were a banner attraction. . . . Track was a major sport at Westminster in 1918. The Titans even sent a relay team to the Penn Relays. . . .

Nationally, colleges were faced with a scarcity of coaches. . . . The major leagues opened on April 15. Approximately 94,000 fans gathered for six lid lifters. Bobbin-Giants-Brooklyn lured the biggest crowd, 25,000. . . . Attendance dwindled as the season wore on. Cleveland started with an 11,000 crowd. The following day, only 2,000 customers were on hand. . . .

ROBINSON WINS IN EIGHTH ROUND

Ring Solon Stops Fight To Save Bleeding Rubio, At New York City

By JACK MAHON
(International News Service Sports Writer)
NEW YORK, March 21.—Boxing's irresistible force, Sugar Ray Robinson, winner in 29 straight professional battles, and exactly 118 consecutive fistie forays during his short meteoric lifetime, today looked forward to four more engagements in the square circle and a probable enlistment in the army.
Ray, despite a very rough time of it during the voyage, scored a technical kayo over Norman Rubio before 11,274 who paid $22,000.28 at the Garden last night. It was the first kayo of Rubio's rough and tumble career.
The fight was stopped during the intermission between the seventh and eighth rounds by Boxing Commission Chairman John J. Phelan, when Rubio, ripped and bleeding sat on his stool, a perfect target for more punishment and a sure kayo if the fight went any farther.
To Meet Sammy Secret
"I hurt my left hand in the third round or I might have stopped him sooner," said Robinson, who was booed by the citizens for failing to take care of the very durable Mr. Rubio earlier. It was learned, after the fight, Rubio had broken his left hand.
"I have four or five fights lined up," continued the unbeaten colored clubber. "My next one is with Harvey Dubs in Detroit, April 17. Then I'm going to meet Sammy Secret in Cleveland, Marty Servo in New York and the winner of the Lew Jenkins-Mike Kaplan fight in Boston."

Four Junior Cage Tiffs At Y Today

Rose Avenue Takes Close Game Friday

In a game that required two extra periods for a decision Rose avenue's basketball team defeated Croton on Friday afternoon in the Rose avenue gym, 20-17. It was probably one of the best elementary games of the season.
Rose avenue started with a rush and at the end of the first quarter held Croton 7-0. Croton began tightening up although Rose avenue kept out in front. With less than a minute left in final quarter Croton tied the score at 17 and in the first extra period neither side scored. Near the end of the second extra period Rose avenue caged a foul and a field goal for the decision.
For Rose avenue the forwards were Brown and Dado, Ross at center, and Turner and Young at guards. Substitutes, Carbone, Cannon, Fletcher, Joseph and Rayson. For Croton, Daie and Trott were at forwards, Dinafor at center and Valentine and De Pinto at guards. Substitutes were Cook, Memo, De Frank and Parenti.
James Dart refereed the game and handed it well.

SERVICE MEN ON FIGHT CARD

Three Engaged For March 30 Bouts; Moran May Also Appear

And now that Tommy Leach, the effervescent matchmaker of the hustling Jefferson Athletic club apparently has mated two sailors against each other and engaged a marine to battle a navy man, the fans have perked up their ears and are eagerly awaiting the names of the other dozen boxers who will toss punches in the Arena, one week from Monday night.
It will be the first time in the history of local boxing that so many service men appeared on a card. All of them are engaged in recruiting here and while the sailors are expected to box as hard as two brothers fight in a kitchen over a bowl of strawberries, the same can be anticipated when a marine trades punches with a sailor. They are William Carlin vs. William Horcher, sailors, and Ed Spigler vs. James Final, sailor and marine, respectively.
It is likely that the matchmaker will come forth today with a decision as to whether or not that knockem-cold Frankie Moran's fist is in condition for a bruising battle. Some time ago Frankie injured one of his hands and he laid off to permit it to mend. Moran is one of the best amateurs this city has had and if he fights will meet a worthy foe.

New Castle Shooters Trip Niles, 952-940

New Castle Rifle club added another victory to its list, defeating Niles, Ohio, 952-940, Friday night here.
G. Potter, of Niles, was high man with 195. Mowry and Finley, of New Castle, finished second with 193 apiece.
New Castle shoots at Ellwood City Monday night in an inter-state league match. The Ellwood range is located in the high school.
Last night's scores:
New Castle—Mowry, 193; Finley, 193; J. Moore, 188; Parsons, 187; J. Williams, 191. Total—952.
Niles—G. Potter, 195; Twichell, 189; Welsh, 187; J. Potter, 186; Baskett, 183. Total—940.
Other scores:
New Castle—Hammond, 187; Gillich, 186; Hill, 186; Houck, 185; W. Bowers, 181; W. Jones, 177; T. Bowers, 165; E. Jones, 165; Long, 153.
Niles—Kagarise, 182; Morton, 182; Reese, 180; Corbett, 180; Lightner, 179; Hoffman, 177; Dugan, 156.

City Baseball Loop Will Function Again

Make Plans For Coming Season During Meeting On Friday Night

Despite encumbrances brought about by the war, the City Baseball league will function again this season.
During a meeting Friday evening in St. Joseph's hall, representatives of six teams outlined plans for the coming season. The Elders, Moore, Croton, West Side Tigers, West Pittsburg and St. Margaret's of Mahoningtown sent delegates to the session.
The Lawrence Indies and Slovaks were not represented. Officials believe that the two teams may send agents to the next meeting Friday night at 8:45 o'clock at St. Joseph's hall.
At the next session, teams will be required to post the usual $10 franchise fee. Officers will be elected.
Fr. Peter M. Schirra presided.

Parker Is Named Sportsmen's Head

Sportsmen's Council Of Lawrence County Elects On Friday Evening

Harold S. Parker of Ellwood City, will head the Sportsmen's Council of Lawrence county for another year.
During Friday evening's meeting the organization named its new officers. In addition to Parker, the group elected the following officials:
Karl Rohrer, R. F. D. No. 2, vice president. Rohrer is secretary of the Pennsylvania club.
Bert Miles, 927 East Washington street, secretary. Miles serves as secretary of the Lawrence County Coon Hunters association.
H. Gill Brown, treasurer. Brown represents the East New Castle Rod and Gun club.
Delegate and alternate to the federation are E. E. Brown, New Castle, and Odd McCleary of Ellwood, and were elected last year for a two year term.
The auditor's report was presented and accepted during the session.
Strong opposition was lodged against a movement, seemingly on foot, allowing the game commission to open the season on ring neck hens. A protest will be sent to division headquarters as well as direct to the game commission.
The organization will also ask the commission an additional allotment of ring necks for District 12.

Sutherland May Join U. S. Navy

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, March 24.—Dr. John B. (Jock) Sutherland, 53 years old today, may be in the navy before the fall pro football season opens.
The coach of the Brooklyn Dodger gridlers disclosed he has taken examinations in Pittsburgh and Philadelphia in attempting to join the navy and is anxiously awaiting word on his application.

Stanford Coach Takes Maryland Football Berth

(International News Service)
PALO ALTO, Cal., March 21.—Stanford university's board of athletic control was to hold an emergency meeting today to pick a successor to Clark Shaughnessy who resigned to become head coach at the University of Maryland—and it seemed a foregone conclusion that Jim Lawson was the successor.
Shaughnessy, who in 1940 set the football world on its collective ear with the astonishing success he had with his now famous T formation, resigned to join the University of Maryland yesterday through the college's president, Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur.

City-County Loop Meets On Tuesday

Plans for a City-County Independent Baseball league will be outlined during a special meeting scheduled Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock at Carm's 112 West Washington street.
Whether or not the league will function again this season will be decided during the session.

Now Is The Time To Buy 2-Pants Suits

Men and young men of New Castle and vicinity; we advise you to buy your two-trouser suits now while our stock is complete. We will not be able to buy two-trouser suits after March 28th because the War Production Board prohibits the manufacturers of men's suits from making two-trouser suits after that date.

NO MORE CUFFS ON WOOL TROUSERS

March 28th is the last day we will be allowed to put cuffs on trousers. Therefore, if you prefer cuffs on your trousers, we advise you to buy your new suit or extra trousers now and avoid disappointment!

REYNOLDS and SUMMERS

Fashions for Men, Young Men and Boys

The WPB Conservation Order Does Not Affect Men's Suits Made Prior to March 30, 1942

We'd like to clear up any confusion that may exist about the men's clothing in our spring display.

The Pearl Harbor incident did not occur until December 7, consequently the styles of the suits now in our store have not been affected in any way.

Our suits are all wool. Our double breasted suits carry vests. Pleated trousers still are available. Coats are generously long. Some carry patch pockets. Cuffs are permissible but only up to March 30.

We repeat . . . the W.P.B. Conservation Order, except that section referring to cuffs on trousers, applies only to clothing put into process of manufacture March 30, 1942, and thereafter.

And so you'll find our stocks just as complete and varied as any we have ever presented . . . with prices only moderately higher than a year ago.

Japanese Will Be Centered At Santa Anita Track

(International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, March 21.—Santa Anita race track at Los Angeles, the most luxurious turf establishment in the United States, will be used as an induction center for Japanese who are to be evacuated from Pacific coast military zones, it was announced today by the wartime civil control administration.

The Japanese, aliens and citizens alike, will be taken to the track at their own request and for their own protection, the announcement said, and held there temporarily until arrangements are made to care for them permanently elsewhere.

The Santa Anita camp, it was understood, would be operated in much the same manner as the induction centers in the Owens valley but on a smaller scale. It was believed considerable construction work would be necessary to provide quarters for the evacuees.

Two Missionaries From Pennsylvania Held In Hong Kong

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, March 21.—Two missionaries from Pennsylvania and their wives have been interned by the Japanese in Hong Kong, Bishop G. D. Batdorf, of the Eastern Conference of the United Brethren church, announced.

They are the Rev. Calvin Reber, of Lebanon, and The Rev. Dr. Charles W. Shoop, of New Enders, who was director of the Union Mission in Canton before the Japanese invasion. Dr. Shoop's wife is a native of Elizabethtown.

Bishop Batdorf received word that school and hospital workers in Shu Lam, including Miss Esther Schell, of Meyerstown, and Miss Myrtle Lefevre, of York, were safe.

Princeton High To Stage Play

Members of the public speaking class of Princeton high school are working on a play which they will present March 31. The title of the play is "The Mad March Heirs". The plot concerns the selfish, money grabbing antics of the March grandchildren—Rosalind, Cordelia and Hamlet—who are waiting for their rich grandfather to die. How he reforms them and receives their appreciation promises an evening of good entertainment.
This play is a class project of Lois Houk, a member of the senior class. The cast will be announced later.

ATTEND ALL-STATES FLORIDA CELEBRATION

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 20.—Among those at the recent 31st annual south Florida All-States Tourist Day celebration, in which Pennsylvania won third honors, were Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Craig, of 1905 Delaware avenue, New Castle.
